Has users watch more than 1 billion hours of streaming content per month on average.

Building an Audience

Some of the monetization options for someone in the Twitch Partnership Program include shares of revenue from:

Purchasing Bits

Bits are emojis with animation that Twitch users purchase from the service using actual money. Then, as you're playing, those watching your stream can use them inside the chat room associated with your streaming feed to show encouragement or appreciation to you.

Another option for those new to Twitch is receiving sponsorship money. This is extremely difficult without a large following, as businesses typically only sponsor those streaming players who can deliver thousands of eyeballs.

Playing a newly released game from the sponsor, hoping that viewers may choose to purchase the game.
